NACC moderation and engagement

We reserve the right to remove, block or report any content or users that we consider to be in breach of our terms of use.

Where possible we will respond to posts that genuinely seek information in a timely manner, however we cannot comment on matters:

- being considered for investigation
- that may prejudice ongoing investigations
- that may come before, or are, before the courts

We do not engage in speculative commentary. All communications are factual and objective.

We do not respond to all individual comments. We may disable comments on some posts.

Non-endorsement

We do not endorse or support users' comments, opinions or statements on NACC social media pages or made in response to NACC communications.

Information or material posted by a user is solely their view and responsibility and does not represent the views of the NACC or the Australian Government.

If we follow you, re-post or share your content, interact with your content, or conduct any other engagement activities, it does not imply endorsement of any kind by the NACC or the Australian Government.
